Health unit move awaiting provincial consent

by Janice Harrington
Review Editor

The merger of the Mount View Health Unit into the local Didsbury hospital is still awaiting word from the provincial government on renovation funding.

Didsbury and District Health Services director Dennis Stabblar said the regional health authority is still waiting to hear about funding from Alberta Health which will allow them to begin renovations in the hospital. A ground floor site on the north side of the hospital building has been designated for renovations to house the health unit.

The decision to merge the health unit into the hospital was made after regionalization of hospitals and other health care services last year. Regional Health Authority #5, operated out of Drumheller, administers health care services in Didsbury as well as Cereal, Oyen, Linden, Strathmore, Three Hills and Drumheller to the east.

All health care services in the Didsbury area are under the supervision of Stabblar, who under the Mountain View Health Care Centre board's jurisdiction, was the hospital administrator.

Stabblar said the renovation work, expected to cost $300,000, will remodel the former cafeteria and laundry room in the old hospital. The area has been unused since the newer portion of the hospital opened nearly 11 years ago. The exact type of renovations to the area will depend on the kind of services the health unit will provide after the move.

Fire destroys hay plant storage shed

by Janice Harrington
Review Editor

An early morning fire destroyed a storage shed at a hay processing plant near Cremona over the weekend but firefighters were able to contain further damages.

The fire at Cremona Forage Processing Ltd. was reported by several passers-by returning from work in Water Valley about 4 am Sunday morning. There were no staff working at the processors at the time.

Didsbury RCMP said the Cremona Volunteer Fire Department was called out to the fire, which was contained to a hay storage facility at the processing lot, located south of Highway 580.

Constable Miles Peckham said the fire department was able to save the processing building, which sustained minor damages.

Constable Peckham said the cause of the fire is under investigation. Fire fighters are continuing to monitor the fire, which is still burning and is expected to burn for several more days.

Seatbelt saved serious injury

by Janice Harrington
Review Editor

A seatbelt saved a Didsbury youth from serious injury last week after a single vehicle rollover on Highway 582 just east of town.

Constable Andre Paradis of the Didsbury RCMP detachment said the youth was unharmed in the accident which occurred in the morning on August 18. The girl was alone in the car at the time of the accident.

Constable Paradis said the accident is still under investigation.

Town council notes

by Janice Harrington
Review Editor

Didsbury Town Council has signed an agreement with a tax consultant to let them search for means of saving money on the Goods and Services Tax and any commodity taxes.

William Squibb and Associates of Elmira, Ontario, will look through the town's books for misses savings opportunities for a 40 percent fee on any cash recovered.

Didsbury's Director of Corporate Services, Sandra Veenstra, said this is the second year the town has signed up with a consultant to review the taxes paid out by the town.

Last year, under a different firm, no recoveries were made and the process did not cost the town a cent. Veenstra said the town decided to go with William Squibb and Associates because they will be investigating a new area in GST legislation.

Didsbury has hired a new municipal lawyer to handle the town's advice on municipal law.

Stuart Blyth of McCarthy Tetrault of Calgary will replace Brownlee Fryett of Edmonton as the town's lawyers.

Didsbury CAO Evan Parliament said the town will still consult with local legal firms for advice on administrative legal advice as they have done in the past.

An interim advisory board has been set up for the Main Street program and one of its first tasks will be to find an architect to help develop plans for sprucing up Didsbury's downtown.

Linda Vernon-Third, Chamber of Commerce President, a member of the Business Revitalization Zone Board and town councillor Willard Swalm, Vance van Dam and Gayle Veno will make up the ad hoc board.

Main Street Coordinator David Mohr will also make up part of the board.

Mohr said a letter of invitation has been sent to various architectural firms requesting their bid for the project. Architects interested were to be interviewed by a selection committee last Friday.

Under arrest. Treasury Branch manager Brian Kosinski, aka Krazy Kosinski, was led away in handcuffs by RCMP Corporal Vaughn Christensen after he was arrested for a variety of "crimes against humanity", among them: golfing badly on Monday nights. Despite pleading not guilty, his staff unanimously found him guilty. The fun was all part of the bank's participation in the Agricultural Fair and Rodeo. Janice Harrington photo nounces decisions of funding for renovations, Stabblar said the health unit will remain in the Didsbury Provincial Building adjacent to the court house.

"Until we hear one way or the other on the funding, or until the regional health authority decides to use their own money, the plan to move is still on hold," Stabblar said.

While the wait is a bit frustrating, Stabblar said it had a fortunate side. After the severe rain in July when several Didsbury homes and businesses were flooded, Stabblar said the area slated for renovations was flooded with approximately four inches of rain water.

"Luckily this happened before we started renovations," he said. "At least now we can correct the problem before we begin all the work."

Town's capital budget passed

by Janice Harrington
Review Editor

Didsbury Town Council has passed a budget outlining their capital project plans for the year.

Under the budget plan, the major projects outlined include paving of the north by-pass road and 17th Street and sidewalk replacement on 19th Avenue from 20th to 21st Streets.

Total cost for the capital budget is $4,278,855, of which $2,339,443 will come from grants. The remaining costs will be paid out of the town's operating budget and reserve funds.

Town CAO Evan Parliament said capital projects will keep the town crews extremely busy next year when plans for downtown revitalization are implemented.

"The reason why we didn't start the sidewalk replacement program for main street this year is because we wanted further consultation on the design and we are just running out of time," he said. "We will begin that next spring." Parliament said the $115,000 cost for the sidewalk replacement on main street has been budgeted and remains as part of the 1996 capital plan.

Twenty three days in jail was considered punishment enough for a man who pleaded guilty to a charge of failure to comply with a release order.

Daniel Caron was released on his own recognizance in May after appearing on charges which are still to be tried in Queen's Bench. One of the conditions of his release was that he was to avoid contact with his estranged wife.

But Caron admitted to breaking that condition on four separate occasions since his release. After complaints from his wife, Caron was arrested by the RCMP and remained in custody until his appearance on the charges last week.

The 23 days Caron spent in jail before his appearance and guilty plea was considered punishment enough for the breach of the condition and Caron was released. Caron's lawyer said the man intends to take a job in Fort St. John, B.C. and won't have contact again with his wife.

Didsbury Provincial Court showed just how serious the law was taking spousal abuse and sentenced a man to six months in jail after he pleaded guilty to assault with a weapon.

John Franklin Anglet was sentenced to six months for the attack on his wife which occurred at their residence when she tried to break up a fight between Anglet and a friend.

The court was told Anglet threw a table on top of his wife, sat on the table and then hit her repeatedly on the back with a frying pan. Both were drinking at the time of the incident. Anglet's wife suffered serious bruising as a result of the attack.

Judge F.L. Maloney told Anglet that spousal assault in Alberta is considered a very serious offence.

"In our society today, spousal assault is considered a very serious assault because of the relationship of trust," Judge Maloney said. "We have been told (that) there must be a period of incarceration."

As part of his six month sentence, Anglet was also ordered to undergo a 28 day alcohol abuse treatment program in Estevan, Saskatchewan. After his release, Anglet will remain on probation for two years, during which he was ordered to abstain from non-prescription drugs and alcohol.

An Olds man has been ordered to stand trial on charges of assault with a weapon, break and enter and theft and unlawfully being in a dwelling.

Peter Hofer was ordered to stand trial after a lengthy preliminary trial in Didsbury Provincial Court last week.

The charges were laid against Hofer after an incident in March with his tenant who lived in Westward Ho.

Hofer will be arraigned in Calgary Court of Queen's Bench on September 17.

A couple's spat which turned ugly after a friend stepped into the fray has netted a Didsbury man a $500 fine for assault.

Kevin Anderson was found guilty of assault after a trial in Didsbury Provincial Court last week.

The incident occurred last February outside Our Rose Lounge. Anderson was having an argument with his estranged common-law wife when her friend, Karen Heisler, chose to step in.

While details of exactly how a fight started between Anderson and Heisler are sketchy, Judge F.L. Maloney determined that Anderson had thrown the first blow and found Anderson guilty of assault.

"Although (Heisler's) behaviour was certainly not appropriate and it is regrettable that she decided to interfere in what (Anderson) considered a private matter between (him and his common-law wife), in our society today, it is not acceptable for a male individual to hit a female individual Judge Maloney said.

Anderson was given until January 15, 1996 to pay his fine.

Complaints

Janice Harrington

Recently, the Canadian government announced a rather large expenditure of funds on military equipment, more specifically, tanks and helicopters.

The purchase of these items for the military has been a political tool for several administrations. One day the purchase is on, the next it is off. The P.O. was readied and then trashed depending on the governments interpretation of the public mood.

Now that the purchase is back on again and several million dollars will be spent over a few years, the criticism is raging again.

This makes little sense considering the state of Canadian military equipment since WW II. We have been the brunt of jokes, even amongst ourselves, about the one warship we have and the decrepit old tanks tottering around battle fields in various unsettled parts of the world. Canadians military personnel have long been considered the best trained in the world (second only to the Israelis), but our effectiveness has been severely hampered by the lack of decent equipment upon which to train and with which to use.

Many would argue the purchase of equipment at a time when the Cold War has ended and the threat of military action in our own part of the world is minimal is a waste of tax payers money. Not so, this is indeed the most appropriate time to ensure our forces are at the ready.

While the Cold War threat has ended, the threat of some sort of military action is never dead, though it may take years to come. Complacency about the safety of our world order is a dangerous attitude. It is best to prepare for a war that may never come than to be surprised and unprepared.

It is also unwise to rely on the United States and our friends in Britain for protection. The U.K. is undergoing the same decay of the military as we are in light of current economic conditions and who knows how long the U.S. will be interested in protecting our interests rather than promoting their own.

And lastly, we must remember that while cutbacks in health care and social services may be harder to swallow provincially while the federal government purchases shiny, new equipment for supposed war-mongering, protecting those institutions now is worth much more than losing them to outside interests later.

Quote of the week

"There was four inches of water everywhere. So it is a good thing (the renovations) hadn't been done or we would be redoing a lot of it."

Didsbury and District Health Care Services Administrator Dennis Stabber talking about their good fortune in delays in renovations at the hospital. Flooding last month in town would have ruined any work the hospital had undertaken in plans to include the health unit in the hospital.

Originally the promise of a fixed rate on grain transport was given by the railroad for land and mineral rights from the government. As such it became a significant element in the price or value of grain producing land over the last 100 years. The payout may be regarded as compensation for the drop in land value because of a drop in returns for grain exported by the railways.

The government has conveniently for itself left the matter of compensation to the tenant and landlord so it can offend no one, so the two parties are to make their own agreement, arbitrated, at their expense by government appointed arbitrators.

The basis is the rental contract with terms specified or implied. Implied is the right of the tenant to the benefits of a bumper crop, increased or decreased prices for grain, increased or decreased production costs. Probably no contract mentions Crow Benefit, it is simply implied that neither party has considered it. Soundless otherwise stated, like other factors, like prices of grain it should not be considered.

Only if the landlord specifically or by implication guaranteed the continuance of Crow benefits to the lessee, should he be required to pay a crow benefit to the renter or current contractor. On future contracts the tenant can consider the lesser price of grain to be a reduction of his offer to rent, and the reduction is loss or payment of the received Crow benefit to the landlord, which benefit was his at the payout.

But if the landlord is responsible to compensate the tenant what should it be?

Half and half? The tenant loses it for 1 year. The owner for all future years?

It depends on the term. If the loss was for 20 years it would be 1/20 to the tenant, 19/20 to landlord or 5 percent to 95 percent.

But such calculations ignore the fact that the future payments should be present value, which in turn is influenced by interest rates. The present value of $100 due in 50 years is the amount which placed on compound interest would produce $100 in 50 years, probably 5 or 10 cents. Again the $1 would be a 2045 dollar, probably much less value because of inflation.

It is possible to calculate a fair distribution if a landlord is presumed to have guaranteed no loss of the Crow benefit and fair interest and inflation allowance is agreed upon.

I offer this example: a 2 year contract based on 7 percent interest rate and 2 percent inflation or 5 percent net rate.

For each $1 compensation, the value at present of all future payments is S, the sum of these to infinity.

The present value of the dollar is  $1 - 1.05 = .9543$ , ie a bit more than 95¢ would become $1 at 5 percent interest in 1 year.

$1.000S = 1 + .9543^2 + \dots + .9543$  to infinity

$9543S = .9543 + .9543^2 + \dots + .9543$  to infinity

Subtract  $.0457S = 1 - .0457S$  or total value of payments = 1

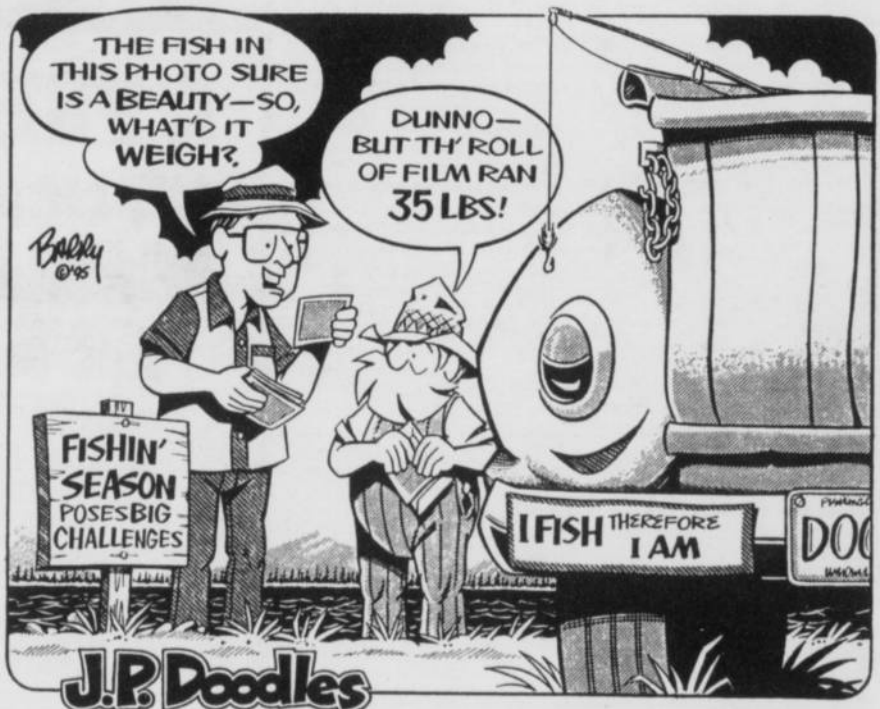

$S = \frac{1}{.9543} = 21.8818$

.0457 We have determined the value, present value, of the Crow benefit to be $21.8818 for each $1 of compensation.

Of this on a 2 yr. contract the value to tenant is  $1 + .9543$  or $1.9543, leaving $19.9275 as landlords share.

The percentage split then would be:

Tenant	$1.9543 \times 100$ percent
	$21.8818 = 8.9312$ percent
Landlord	$19.9275 \times 100$ percent
	$21.8818 = 91.0688$
	100.000 percent

Death penalty not a deterrent

Dear Editor:

Canada abolished the death penalty in 1976. No executions have been carried out since 1962.

There are those in 1995, including some Members of Parliament, who would turn the clock back twenty years and reverse that decision. This appears to be a knee-jerk reaction to the constant media coverage of crime in this country.

W.F. Roper, a British doctor with 35 years experience in the prison medical service states that: "Capital punishment as a deterrent is by no means the simple affair that some people think - a high proportion of murders are so tensed up at the time of their crime as to be impervious to the consequences to themselves. Others manage to persuade themselves that they can get away with it."

In Canada the homicide rate per 100,000 population fell from a peak of 3.09 in 1975, the year before the abolition of the death penalty for murder, to 2.73 in 1983 and in 1986 it reached its lowest level in 15 years.

Recent analysis of the homicide rate in Canada revealed that it was 2.19 per 100,000 in 1993, 15 percent lower than the rate in 1992 and represented the third largest year-to-year decrease since 1961. In other words the homicide rate in Canada has declined 30 percent between 1975, the year before the abolition of capital punishment and 1993.

Comparison of the homicide rate in Canada and the United States, where sentencing varies from state to state, is enlightening. According to preliminary figures, released from the Federal Bureau of Investigations, there were 24,000 homicides in the United States in 1993 - a rate of 9.5 per 100,000 population. Thus the American rate was more than four times that of Canada. Considering the above, there is no proof that the death penalty is a deterrent to crime.

Those who would bring back the death penalty as a deterrent to murder have not provided any evidence to back their claims. Either they are not interested in proving their point, or are just simply seeking vengeance.

Reference for some of the above is contained in an article by Lester Springer, a member of Amnesty International and published in "The Barbados Advocate", May 1, 1995.

Plan for equality released

Dear Editor:

On August 11, 1995, I released Setting the Stage for the Next Century: The Federal Plan for Gender Equality, which details the Canadian Government's initiatives to promote women's equality.

The quest for gender equality has been a vigorous and vital stream of change in Canada in the last three decades, a current that cuts across all the issues of the day and touches each of our lives. Gender equality, by definition, involves both women and men as partners in the quest for fairness and in the benefits of equality.

Canada and its people remain committed not only to the principle of gender equality but also to action that makes equality reality - even in these uncertain times. That means adapting our strategies for the times. In the report, Setting the Stage for the Next Century: The Federal Plan for Gender Equality, the government outlines its contributions to solutions. The Federal Plan strengthens the government's commitments to equality and sets a course to accelerate that progress.

I will present the Plan, on behalf of Canada, at the Fourth United Nations World Conference on Women, taking place in Beijing, China, September 4-15, 1995.

The Federal Plan's most significant element, is the emphasis it places on involving both women and men in the quest for a more equitable society. The Plan calls for federal government departments and agencies to take a gender-based approach to the development of all future legislation and policies in order to assess the potential for different impacts on women and men.

Copies of The Federal Plan for Gender Equality are available, free of charge, in English and French from: Status of Women Canada, 360 Albert Street, Suite 700, Ottawa, Ontario K1A 1C3, telephone (613) 995-7835, fax (613) 943-2386, TDD (613) 996-1322.

A tangled web

At the Legislature

by Bill MacLaughlin
CKUA Correspondent

If it looks like the other shoe falling and walks like the other shoe falling...is it the other shoe?

And if it is, if this is actually Part Two of the $409 million Swan Hills fiasco, can it be wrapped up in enough unbearably dull financial detail to keep it from waking up taxpayers?

Well, the Alberta government has served notice that it will exercise its right to claim a 20 percent share of Vencap. The company still owes taxpayers for a $200 million loan extended when the Alberta government created Vencap as a source of venture capital. The idea, according to Provincial Treasurer Jim Dinning, is to sell that 20 percent share and make back some of the money. So far so good.

Dinning also takes pains to insist that the bidding process to sell that share will be as competitive as possible, so that we'll get more offers and presumably get the best possible return for taxpayers.

Just one problem. According to Vencap's chairman, Don Carlson, there are no buyers in sight...except for the Calgary company that appears to have the official blessing of the Klein government.

"The government has asked us to negotiate with Trimac and we're responding to that request."

Trimac is the parent company of Bovar, the firm that got a guaranteed profit from the Alberta government to run the Swan Hills Hazardous Waste Treatment Facility. It was such a sweet deal that the government has signed a letter of intent that says we'll pay $147 million dollars and hand over our 40 percent share of the Swan Hills plant, just for the right to get out of the deal.

Back in June, when the government was desperately looking for a way out that didn't look so bad, Bovar/Trimac offered to accept that 20 percent share of Vencap, instead of taking a cheque. That would've given them control of a $360 million operation, plus ownership of the Swan Hills plant.

Jim Dinning and Ralph Klein liked the idea so much that they summoned two members of the Vencap board to Government House to meet with executives from Trimac.

But details of the proposal leaked out and, in the end, the government announced a deal with Bovar that didn't involve taking over Vencap. That deal isn't final. In fact, a number of items are unresolved and John Havelock, the man in charge of negotiating for the government, says it could be weeks or even months before there is a contract.

With that still open, you might be forgiven for wondering if that the decision to sell our share of Vencap is related to the Swan Hills negotiations.

"No," says Treasurer Dinning.

Is Trimac still interested in getting control of Vencap?

"You'd have to talk to Trimac about that." "Is the negotiation still going on?" "You'd have to talk to Trimac. We have not been part of those discussions."

Actually, those are the same negotiations that the government told Vencap to take part in, to the exclusion of any other potential buyers. Vencap's Don Carlson notes that they're also the same negotiations that began back with Dinning playing matchmaker at Government House in June.

What makes it more curious is the fact that Vencap has offered to buy out the $200 million loan for its present market value. The Auditor General valued the loan at $136 million.

The government said no. Vencap came back with a better offer, around $167 million, and with those negotiations in the 11th hour, the government suddenly stopped talking and called those Vencap executives into the parlour to meet some friends.

It doesn't matter who gets control of Vencap, as long as taxpayers get the best possible price for their share. As the Treasurer helpfully points out, the best way to achieve that is through competition, but Vencap has been given its marching orders by the government and the word "competition" does not appear. That may explain why no one in the government has mentioned that three other groups have expressed more than passing interest, including a group from Calgary.

It may be that any eventual offer from Trimac may be the best taxpayers could have done and it may be that the tangled web of Swan Hills, Trimac and Vencap consists of entirely separate and unrelated strands.

Or maybe it's just complicated enough to keep it off the television newshours and put most taxpayers to sleep.

IT DOESN'T

Summer fun, despite a lack of sun

by Elaine Wilson
Review writer

July had only seven rain-free days, and August appears to be trying to equal or 'better' that lamentable statistic, but area church bible camps and vacation bible schools worked around the wet weather to fashion happy memories for those who attended.

At the Evangelical Missionary Church, average attendance at their vacation bible school was 66.

"It fluctuates on a day to day basis," spokesperson Linda Johnston said.

When weather permitted, outdoor activities took over the parking lot. Indoors, the theme 'Seaside with the Savior' took the form of craft work, singing, and acting out skits and stories. James River Bible Camp was the site for several Rivers Edge Camping Ministries out of the Evangelical Church, taking place throughout July and August.

"Those who went tubing in the [Little Red Deer River] didn't have to go tubing to get wet," said one of the leaders who hosted the recently completed Redeemer Lutheran Church Camp. Meanwhile, Redeemer Lutheran vacation bible school attendees wrapped up a week of activities with 'Friday Fair' on August 18. Face painting, a petting zoo (with plush animals), floor bowling, fly-fishing and a roomful of activities appeared to delight all involved.

The Community Bible Church, with pastors Richard and Beth Kope, will hold their church camp at Kananaskis beginning August 20, while the Anglican Youth Camps kick off on varying days. The Anglican Junior Camp (for ages 8 to 11) runs from August 21 to 26 and the Teen Camp (12 to 15) will go from August 20 to 25 at Pioneer Lodge near Bergen.

This fall, the Redeemer Lutheran Church will once again be holding their Kids Klub - an inter-denominational group which meets on the Fridays when school classes are not scheduled in Didsbury. Activities and snacks are covered by the $3 per semester fee. The Kids Klub, entering into its second year, is headed up by Charlotte Lynn who is preparing a new slate of activities for those planning to attend. Pre-registration is appreciated and may be made by calling the Redeemer Lutheran Church office.

Run while the sun shines. Some of the 66 children on hand for the Evangelical Missionary Church's vacation bible school let off some steam while the sun was shining last week. Because of the wet weather many of the events were held indoors, including such activities as craft projects. The theme of the VBS was "Seaside with the Saviour". Elaine Wilson photo

A peek inside the medicine chest

• At Carstairs' Roulston Museum

by Betty Ayers
Special to the Review

A special loan of artifacts, from the Glenbow Museum, will be on view at the Roulston Museum from August through October.

A peek inside this medicine chest reveals some weird and wonderful paraphernalia and potions that were relied upon by many families in the days before the development of antibiotics and before the general acceptance of inoculation and vaccination.

The inclusion of a doctor's name on the medicine's label was used as a powerful selling device which worked even after the Patent Medicine Act of 1908. This act required the listing of the exact ingredients, which meant that the medicines such as Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup had chloroform listed on their labels. Patent medicines remained a mainstay of medicine cabinets until well after the Second World War.

The museum is open every day from 1 - 4 p.m. except Mondays. For more information please call 337-3710.

What's cooking?

Piquant red pepper jelly

Jelly takes on a new personality when it is made with popular red peppers. This brilliantly colored vegetable is as sweet as many fruits and makes an intriguing jelly.

Tiny pieces of red pepper are suspended in a sparkling jelly in this unique recipe. The sweet pepper flavor is enhanced with orange juice and rind. Serve red pepper jelly as a sweet spread or use it as a condiment for grilled meats.

Farmers' markets have an abundance of reasonably priced red peppers in late summer and early fall. So it is the perfect time to capture their delicious color and flavor in jars of this sparkling jelly.

This recipe can also be prepared with yellow or green peppers. Using different colors of sweet peppers produces jellies with subtle flavor variations in addition to an interesting color variance.

Orange Red Pepper Jelly

Prep time: 30 minutes

Cooking time: 40 minutes

2 cups finely chopped sweet red bell peppers

1 1/4 cups white vinegar

1/4 cup coarsely grated orange rind

1/4 cup orange juice

5 cups granulated sugar

1/2 tsp hot pepper sauce

2 pouches (each 85 mL)

CERTO Liquid Fruit Pectin

Bring red peppers, vinegar, rind and juice to boil in a large saucepan; reduce heat and simmer, covered, 10 minutes or until rind is softened.

Stir in sugar.

Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard, stirring often, for 5 minutes; remove from heat.

Stir in hot pepper sauce and liquid fruit pectin; stir for 5 minutes to suspend peppers evenly.

Stir and skim foam with a metal spoon.

Pour quickly into warm sterilized jars filling up to 1/4 inch (0.5 cm) from rim.

Seal while hot with sterilized two-piece lids with new centres. Makes 5 cups.

Mount View Lodge news

by Annie Caush
Special to the Review

Hi all.
We hope our long "rainy season" is over and that we will get some summer. At least the weather-man was kind for the parade. As usual we had excellent seats provided for Lodge residents and our guests from the Carstairs and Sundre Lodges beside the Baptist Church. Did you see our buggy in the parade? It won a first prize ribbon and trophy. Thank you, Mr. Charlton for driving your team and loaning us the buggy. Lodge residents riding were Avis Collin, Florence Hudson and Blanche Tremblay. After the parade, our staff served a delicious dinner to us and our guests from Carstairs and Sundre. After dinner we were entertained by a group entertaining at the fair - the

Rodeo Riders.

We have also had several trips lately. One morning a number of us went to the Sundre Lodge for some games with their residents and then we stayed for dinner and visiting. It was a pleasant change. Those who went on the trip to Banff last week reported they enjoyed the drive and evidently the weather wasn't as bad there as here that day but not the best for a drive.

One afternoon a couple of weeks ago a number of us went to Grace deJong's for a sing-along and delicious treats by a campfire in her yard. It was one of the few nice afternoons and we had a lovely time.

In hospital we have our three Gladys's - Dawson, Donald and Smith. Also Helen Notley, Ernie Dawson and Ken Mullen. We hope you all feel much better soon.

Mental health manager appointed

Special to the Review

The Provincial Mental Health Board (Central Alberta Area Office) and Regional Health Authority 5 are pleased to announce the appointment of Anna Thompson as Interim Regional Mental Health Manager.

The Provincial Mental Health Board was established to consolidate, plan, implement and divest mental health services to each Regional Health Authority. The new system envisioned by the Board will be built on a consolidation of existing programs and the development of new community based initiatives. The target for divestment of mental health services from the Provincial Mental Health Board to the Regional Health Authority is March 31, 1997. Mental health planning requires close liaison with the Regional Health Authority and those operations provided for by the Provincial Mental Health Board.

Thompson's responsibilities will include the day-to-day operations for community mental health services under the Authority of the Chief Operating Officer, Community Mental Health Services.

A Regional Mental Health Advisory Committee is in the

DIET HINT OF THE DAY

BUDDY VICTOR, DIRECTOR
WEIGHT WATCHERS

Hunger? Or Appetite?

Your brain signals the body's desire for more food by motivating your appetite or by making you feel hungry. How do you respond? You probably rush to the table, the fridge, the supermarket or a restaurant. WAIT! Consider the nature of that hunger. Is it merely a craving? Have you trained your body to expect more food than it needs? Are you simply in the habit of eating between meals? Does an evening of television trigger a need for pizza? Stop. Re-examine your eating habits. Establish your needs. Plan meals. And start losing weight the sensible way.

Southwest Didsbury news

by Bessie Eckstrand
Special to the Review

Sympathy of the area is expressed to the late Alex Blain family as mother Mae Blain passed away Aug. 10th in the Didsbury Hospital at the age of 85 years. Funeral was held at Knox United Church with Rev. Ken Jordan officiating. Interment in the Didsbury Cemetery. Lunch was served by Knox United Church Women.

Mae was born Sept. 9th in the Rugby district, attended Rugby and Didsbury High School and completed a home-maker course at Olds College. She married Alex Blain in 1931 and they farmed west of Didsbury. She was a member of the United Church, the U.C.W. and W.I. and enjoyed square dancing and travelling. They raised three children: son Don (Maureen) and two daughters - Vera (husband Bruce Nelson) and Lila (husband Tom Brooks) of Calgary, eight grandchildren and five great grandchildren. Mae was a kind, considerate person, loved her family, friends and community. She spent the last 14 years as a patient in the Didsbury Auxiliary Hospital. She will be sadly missed by her family and friends.

Area would like to welcome to the area Bill and Bunny Burrell of Calgary, who purchased (July 10th) the Eric Esperson (Canada) acreage north on Eckstrand road.

Farmers are hoping to get their hay up in the next 10 days as crops are ripening fast and harvest will soon be upon us. We hope the rain has stopped now and hail and we'll have a nice Indian summer.

Hello Didsbury & Surrounding Area

At the Kitchen Table

by Noreen Olson

Two pieces of kitchen equipment came into the house this week and it happens that they represent technologies that are separated by 110 years.

The newer item is a microwave oven. Our old micro was going to need a rather expensive repair job, it had worn out something that microwaves can't function without, it's magnetron or spleen or something and since it is 15-years-old and that's old in microwave years, we decided to spring for a new model. The new one weighs less than the old and has smaller outside dimensions but has the same inner capacity. It also has higher wattage, which means that I can boil over coffee or completely ruin a loaf of bread more quickly than ever before and, most amazing, it has an "operation Guide System," that shows words and numbers in a rolling form on a special screen display. You can choose that your new micro speak to you in French, Spanish or English and in either Metric or Imperial measure. When you plug it in it says, "Welcome to Panasonic, refer to operating instructions before use." Other messages include, "shut door," "set time," "choose portion size," "press start." It repeats the command, asks how many cups of coffee are being heated and asks if your vegetables are fresh or frozen. When I was defrosting the Sunday roast it stopped half way and told me to "turn over." At the conclusion of each transaction it says, "enjoy your meal."

Not this model, but the next one up has a calorie calculator that will do a caloric count of all the food eaten each day and then total and save it in the Calorie Total Memory. This ranks right up there with the Japanese toilet that checks your blood pressure and glucose level. "No one ever needs to be lonely again," my husband says, "they can just sit down and have a nice visit with their microwave."

The old item that came into the kitchen is my Mom and Dad's clock. We have it only temporarily because it had stopped. In the old days when it stopped, Dad would take it apart and clean it in coal oil and now Mom wanted our men to have a look at it. Mark and Ralph have a reputation for fixing things and although Mark isn't sure that he did anything the clock is running again.

The clock is "schoolhouse style," which means that it has a large face in an octagon frame over an attached box that houses the brass pendulum. Total length is 21 inches, widest part is 14 inches. Its roman numerals and black hands are protected by a glass window in a brass frame. Inside are several large gears within a framework that is bolted to a wooden back wall. On the framework is stamped, S. Thomas Thomaston, CT. U.S.A. 9 1/2. I think that means it is a 9 1/2 day clock because it will run for more than a week on each winding. The key is brass and it has always lain inside the lower door and beneath the pendulum. There is no question that it is a Seth Thomas clock. Seth Thomas organized the Seth Thomas Clock Company at Plymouth Hollow, Connecticut in 1853. After his death the western portion of Plymouth Hollow was named Thomaston.

A note inside the clock says, "This clock was purchased March 18, 1995 by Elison Milligan in Lincoln Michigan at Fred Card Jewelers, at the time of the birth of his son, Charles. Given to Glen and Martha Johnston 1924 at Chinook, Alberta."

My mom and dad bought the Milligan's farm at Chinook. Mr. and Mrs. Milligan and their family were moving back to Michigan and the two horse drawn wagons that held their worldly goods were rapidly filling up. Because my folks were newly-weds and maybe because a clock doesn't travel as well as some things, the clock was a wedding gift. It had already proven itself a survivor; during a fire it had been thrown out of a window and survived the night in a snowdrift.

If the clock was purchased in 1885 it began ticking in the same year that Louis Riel was hanged in Regina and the last spike was driven at Craigellachie. Sir John A. was Prime Minister and the clock ticked its way through the 19 P.M.s that succeeded him. It marked the hours of the Klondike Gold Rush and it remained calm while the Empress of Ireland and the Titanic sunk and the Hindenburg burned and fell from the sky. It listened to the news from two world wars and saw women fight for recognition as persons and the right to vote. The Berlin Wall went up and came down, men walked on the moon, Communism rose and fell, and in our family there was birth and death, joy and sorrow.

I think it's watching the new microwave. I think it's saying, "Maybe you can communicate in your limited way, but I am the one who has something to say, and when you are worn out and thrown away, I'll mark the time for another day. Tick Tock, Tick Tock, Tick Tock."

Tips on using your bread machine

by Deborah Collingwood
Special to the Review

1. Always use bread flour. I started out using all purpose and the loaves were small and coarse. What an absolute difference bread flour makes as it has more gluten in it. Rogers and Robin Hood now sell it in the 10 kg size white and wholewheat bread flour. Do not use U.S. flour as it has less gluten in it.

2. Even more economical is to buy all purpose flour on sale and add 1 teaspoon of vital wheat gluten per cup of flour and 1 tablespoon of water as gluten absorbs water. Make sure to buy wheat gluten and not wheat flour. It's available at grocery and health food stores. Use it for extra volume in your whole wheat loaves.

3. Look at your dough. Lift up the lid and check it out as it's mixing. Even if your machine says not to lift the lid, it's perfectly fine to at this time. What you want is a soft, smooth, round ball. If the dough looks too dry, add water a teaspoon at a time. If the dough looks sticky, add a teaspoon of flour until the dough forms a smooth ball. Do not add more than 4 tablespoons of liquid or flour as it's too hard for the machine to adjust.

4. Use Bakpan Instant Yeast within 3 months. Cover after opening then refrigerate. Bring refrigerated yeast to room temperature by letting it sit for 10 minutes before using.

5. Use liquids at room temperature, as the machine generates lots of heat.

6. Use the amount of sugar and salt asked for in the recipe. Yeast feeds on the sugar. Salt is necessary to keep the yeast from acting too quickly.

If you're wondering whether or not to buy a bread machine, here are some of the things I didn't know about them until I got one.

You can program your machine so your bread is hot in the morning or ready for you after work.

You can select dark, medium or light crust.

There is no oiling the pan as it's baked on T-Fal so less fat is used yet the crust is delicious.

After your bread is baked it will be kept warm in the machine for 3 hours.

Your machine can make sweet dough and pizza dough. When I make my pizza dough I throw everything in and it does the mixing and kneading for me. I don't even get my hands dirty!

Rick Mousseau*Steering committee co-chair for Region 5 Children's services

As co-chair of the steering committee for the revamped Commissioner of Services for Children department, Rick Mousseau is gearing up for a busy and challenging year. As part of the department's mandate to blend services, Mousseau will be looking at ways to integrate and streamline processes already in place. Mousseau sees integrated partnerships between programs and departments, early intervention and regional organization as priorities. Employed by the County of Mountain View, and serving as fire chief with the local fire-fighting unit, Mousseau's plate is already pretty full, but he likes it that way. I like new challenges, Mousseau said. His position is on a volunteer basis for a one year term. To date, his involvement has centred around meeting attendance, but he foresees a busy fall when school and related activities shed light on the children's requirements in the area. In addition to prior involvement with Big Brothers and other child-centred clubs and organizations, Mousseau is the third eldest of 12 children in his family, giving him plenty of experience and insight into the needs of young people. His best qualification, however, is his sincere desire to do whatever it takes to ensure youngsters grow up in a safe and healthy environment. As his wife Dean Mousseau said: He loves kids. He can find something good in every child.

brief glimpse at the people and events in our community

Bob Davidson
Recruiting for 1996

Volunteers are the cornerstone bolstering the 12th annual fair portion of the District of Didsbury annual agricultural fair and rodeo. Captured prior to show time, Bob Davidson explained the role of volunteers can include anything from judging events to set-up and tear down- a week-long process. Anyone with even an extra hour or two is welcomed with open arms- which are quickly filled with something to carry, set up or move. Expressing appreciation for all the work completed by various committees and individuals, Davidson said those who get involved invariably enjoy the experience and urged anyone interested to climb on board the volunteer wagon for next year's program.

Hammers, saws and screwdrivers aside, motivation is the best tool available when embarking on a major project. The new 9600 sq. foot building under construction at Koinonia School is on target, both time and budget-wise. Donations and fundraising activities have brought the project to within $10,000 of the $220,000 cost- which came in well under the projected cost of $250,000. Principal Garry Anderson said that with the exception of the building supervisor, all work was completed on a volunteer basis. Hundreds of volunteers including students, teachers, parents and even grandparents have lent a hand, and several interested observers without a vested interest in the school have picked up hammers and pitched in. The new building will house five classrooms and a large meeting/music area and will be essentially completed by the time school opens September 5.

Garry Anderson
Koinonia School -
building update*Vair Whitlow and Pat Pringle Fair and rodeo preparations behind the scenes

The float decorating committee scattered the instant they saw the camera, but two captured on film were Pat Pringle and Vair Whitlow. The wagon which belongs to Laura and Howard Krebs was taking shape after five hours of efforts by the half dozen workers on the float committee assembled outside the horse barn area. Inside the arena, Jamie Krebs was testing the footing of the dirt and sand mixture used for rodeo events on horseback while Mike Barr, Craig Anderson, Bruce Papke and Vair Whitlow were completing the last of the corral and penning construction. Over in the curling complex, the room was being prepared by Jean Flett, Candy Scott, Bob Davidson and a team of helpers. Upstairs, Sharon Barr, Louise Krebs and Pam Whitlow shifted chairs and tables in preparation for the influx of visitors expected. Scores of other workers dashed from venue to venue, completing last minute tasks and duties. Candy Scott commended the volunteers for untold hours of effort while pointing to the smiles most sported. Scott noted that when you get a large group together with a common goal, it's often surprising how much enjoyment is reaped by individuals. They're having fun, Scott said.

Angela Neufeld
Back to Japan

After spending a week and a half visiting relatives in Didsbury plus some time in Saskatchewan and Manitoba, Angela Neufeld, daughter of Dave and Martha Neufeld of Didsbury, has returned to Japan for two more years as an English teacher with the Jet program, sponsored by the Japanese government and most English speaking countries. In May, Neufeld spent four days in Kobe, Japan taking further training and saw first hand the destruction let by the earthquake. Neufeld received her Bof ED and Music degrees in 1992 from the University of Manitoba. Prior to that, she received her Bachelor of Music degree from the Canadian Mennonite Bible College.

Seeing spots?

Dalmatians Groucho, Crystal and Plato are familiar sights to regular attendees at the regular Wednesday night Farmer's Market in Didsbury.

Owner Shelley Lugg from Munson said the former coach dogs are keenly conscious of their duty to guard her half ton which she uses to transport honey, dried flowers and the hottest [locally grown] peppers. The Farmer's Market, still in full swing every Wednesday evening in the curling complex, will start winding down in September. The final date has not yet been announced, but will likely be sometime in the last two weeks of October when the ice is poured for the '96 curling season.

Home business congress planned

Special to the Review

The Calgary Convention Centre is launching an innovative event focusing on the new economy where people are "riding the wave" into their own home-based businesses in astounding numbers.

The Canadian Home Business Congress opens on September 15 and features many renowned speakers who will pass on their expertise to anyone already involved in home business, those contemplating it, or those looking for ways to improve sales techniques applicable to any business!

Of special interest to rural communities is speaker Mike Hollinshead whose topic will be "Small Rural Communities in the new economy - the Opportunities For Rural Home Business" at workshop sessions running throughout the weekend. Hollinshead is a futurist who has operated his own home business for 20 years and he will speak on the trends in the current economy and how they represent opportunities for businesses in the home - and how with the aid of technology, that home-based business can operate extremely well in a rural setting./

For more information or tickets call (403) 531-7850.

It's here. After a renovation job, Potentials, Didsbury's new women's clothing store, opened its doors last week in the former Burnside Jeweller store. Owner Jeannette Johnson said she was pleased with the community's response so far to the new addition to Main Street. Janice Harrington photo

Pay for your remodelling by cleaning house?

Special to the Review

You could toss out a small fortune when you clean house.

"No, dust bunnies aren't yet worth their weight in gold," said author Tony Hyman, "but before shovelling out your kid's room, consider that at least 50 toys from the 1960s and '70s are worth $1,000 or more today."

Jeanne, an "over 30" mother of three in Paso Robles, Calif., is one of many people who have found out too late that everyday items can be worth a great deal more than their original cost.

"When my son left for college, I put a big bag of GI Joe® stuff out for the trash man. What does a college kid need with soldiers? Too late, I learned I could have gotten $500 each for seven of those dolls."

Action figures aren't the only hot kid's collectibles. Your daughter's $4,000 Barbie® from 1964 could pay college tuition and plastic models of Godzilla and Frankenstein from 1966 can put $1,000 each in your pocket.

Trashy trinkets of childhood you can convert to cash include small cars like Dinky® and Tootsie® cap guns, cereal boxes, cartoon-character glasses, Disneyland souvenirs, electric trains, rock 'n' roll posters, lunch boxes, balloon-tire bicycles, radio and TV premiums, board games and sets of plastic cowboys, knights and space figures.

Toys may not be your only household treasures. Beer mugs, pocket-knives, fishing tackle, musical instruments, briar pipes, old toasters, war souvenirs, transistor radios, calculators, Hummel® figurines, 78-rpm records - even old magazines and 25-cent paperback books - will shock you with their current value.

At least a dozen fountain pens and perfume bottles worth $10,000 turn up each year, but owning something valuable doesn't mean much unless you also know who wants to buy it at a fair price. There's only one good buyer of cigar boxes in the country, and people who want to buy sewing machines, BB guns and long-play recordings of show tunes can be equally hard to find.

Since 1980, Hyman has put more than $80,000,000 in people's pockets by introducing them to folks ready to pay cash for everything from sports programs to grandma's china.

Hyman hosts a national call-in show, Trash or Treasure. "I helped a man get $200,000 for a meteorite and a Kentucky listener get $21,000 for a box of postcards, but I especially enjoy helping people find buyers for the everyday stuff that clutters our lives - the cereal box that brought $1,000 or the Levi's® jacket that brought $1,500."

Experience proves you get

Main Street Beat

The Main Street Project will be engaging the services of a Project Architect in the very near future. An architect supplies professional design advice to the Main Street Project for building projects and signage. Five potential architectural firms will be interviewed early this week and we can then start design work shortly thereafter. Main Street is co-hosting, with the town, an open house on September 7, 1995 from 2:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m. This event will be located in the Curling Rink Lounge above the curling rink. The theme of the Open House is "Land Development Opportunities in Didsbury" and forms part of Main Street's economic development initiatives. All are welcome and there will be refreshments. The Tourism and Economic Development (TEC) Board met on August 10 and several interesting items were brought up. The TEC board, along with the Town's Economic Development Department, has developed an electronic community profile. This community profile contains information about Didsbury that is of interest to a wide variety of people, fits on a single floppy disk and can be viewed by any computer with DOS. The profile has been put on a number of blank disks and is being distributed to land developers, tourism agencies, real estate firms and boards and is sent out when any requests for information about the town is received. The next step using computer technology will be the development of a Home page on the Internet. This will allow the tens of millions of Internet users to access information about our town at the touch of a mouse or a key stroke on their computer. Businesses looking to start up, expand or re-locate will be able to assess the merits of Didsbury. By including key words and phrases on the Home Page, we will be able to influence search programs (used to look for words and phrases when "surfing the net") to access the Didsbury Home Page. For example, if we want to advertise opportunities for agri-business in the area we would include words such as "agriculture", "agri-business", "agri-exports" and the like into our Home Page. Others using these search programs to look for such keywords would find our page.

DAVID MOHR

Didsbury Main Street Coordinator

The BRZ met last week also and the main item of business was the status of the downtown sidewalk program. The town and Main Street discovered that a large portion of the money set aside for this program is provincial grant money which must be spent before March 31, 1996. To ensure this grant is fully accessed, some of the downtown sidewalk program money may be spent on other town projects this year and then re-allocated to the downtown sidewalk program for 1996. Town Council passed a motion to ensure that the sidewalk program receives the funds allocated to it.

New Business Spotlight: Main Street would like to welcome Mercer's Mercantile to Didsbury. Operated by Art and Teresa Mercer the store's business is in vitamins, herbs and health foods. Located at 2026 - 23rd Avenue in a converted house just west of the Didsbury Dental Clinic, the store is open Monday to Friday from 10:00 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Art and Teresa also have a booth at the Farmer's Market. In the near future Mercer's Mercantile will be featuring locally produced crafts. Call Art and Teresa at 335-9346. If you are a new business in town call Main Street at 335-3265 and let me know the details.

the best deal when you work with honest, knowledgeable buyers. Hyman's 576-page guide to the top 1,200 collectibles buyers in the United States and Canada is only $24.95, plus $5 shipping and handling, from Trash to Treasure, Box 3028-L, Pismo Beach, CA 93448, or call toll free with MasterCard/Visa: 1-800-549-7500. (You can't hear a ring in many area codes, but operators will answer eventually.) To receive a free 100-page price guide (regularly $7.95) when you order, cut out the name of this paper and include it with your check, or tell the operator when you call.

"People are richer than they think," Hyman said, "but most people don't cash in on what they own because they don't know what they have, who wants it or how much it's worth. My goal is to help them cash in."

More than 2,000 kinds of things are collected today. The average person can't be an expert in lunch boxes, guns, comic books and kitchenware. Neither can the average antique dealer. Yet, you don't need to know whether you have a $5 fishing lure or a $500 lure, he said, as long as you deal with honest experts. Ask them what you have. They will know, Hyman said and pay you fairly.

"You don't go to your butcher with a toothache," Hyman laughed "and you don't ask your dentist to fix your flat. Selling collectibles is the same. If you want the best advice and most money, deal with specialists."

The best buyers may live many miles from you, which is why Hyman advocates selling by mail. It's easy, his readers agree, as long as you describe your items carefully, make a photo or Xerox® copy, and include a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

"The old saying about one man's trash being another man's treasure has never been more true," said Hyman.

Something as simple as a plastic Pez® candy dispenser is worth $500 to one person and a buck to another, Hyman points out, "so it really does matter who you sell to."

THERE'S NO ALTERNATIVE TO CONCRETE

Concrete is the basement building material with all the advantages.

It's a proven performer, Rugged Tough, Durable. A concrete basement will never burn or rot.

And concrete is safe. Quality-controlled, concrete needs no toxic chemicals which may be hazardous to building occupants.

Concrete is an energy-wise choice. A concrete basement needs little heat or air-conditioning. And concrete walls are easily insulated.

Economically, concrete is a good investment. A concrete basement will add years of life to the foundation and considerable dollars to the resale value of your building.

Add up the advantages. There's simply no alternative to quality controlled concrete. The best basement building material.

Tips for parents on learning at home

Being a parent is a very special role. Parents are responsible for teaching their children about life and how to live it fully. This can be a very big job, especially if your child has communication difficulties. Parents often need information about how to best meet the needs of their child.

Your child's speech and language clinician can give you helpful information about your child's speech and language development. The clinician can also suggest specific activities to help your child learn at home. In addition, there are a few basic guidelines on teaching and learning which can help you and your child succeed.

Tips for parents

1. Let your child feel loved. Touching, hugs, kisses, gentle words or an approving smile will help your child feel relaxed and confident about learning.

2. Remember that your child is just a child.

It's important to keep your expectations appropriate to your child's abilities.

3. Give your child approval.

Appreciate any success in learning your child accomplishes. Compliments will encourage your child to continue to learn. Criticism may discourage your child. Accept that your child can make mistakes. Each child is unique. Let your child know that you accept their strengths and weaknesses.

4. Help your child to feel important.

Take time to do things with your child. Driving in the car, going to the store and doing family activities are all opportunities for learning. Your child will appreciate your time and attention.

5. Remember that learning can be fun.

Have a good time with your child. Play together. Do things that delight both of you. If you do not enjoy what you are doing, neither will your child. Follow your child's lead in finding things that are fun to do.

6. Talk to your child.

Even if your child does not seem to understand at first, talk often about what you are doing together. Give your child time to respond.

7. Really listen to your child.

Get down to your child's eye level and look at them as you are listening. Respond to what your child says. This shows that you are sincerely interested in the child's thoughts and feelings.

8. Take an interest in your child's schoolwork.

Help your child learn to be enthusiastic about learning. Ask about school and the activities of the day, in a positive way.

You are your child's first and most important teacher. You set an example for your child of how to listen and talk to others. You can make a big difference in how well your child develops communication skills. If you desire more information in this or other areas of health, call your local District Health Services.

View Credit Union and Grace Banta for donating souvenirs. All of these donations were greatly appreciated and helped to make our reunion even more special. 19-1tp

The family of Mae Blain wish to express a sincere thank you to all of our relatives and friends for their love, prayers and support at the time of her death. The cards, flowers, phone calls and memorial donations were greatly appreciated. Dr. Jordan's service and the music provided by Doreen McEwen and soloist Debra Popovich were a source of comfort. U.C.W. Ladies served a lovely lunch. Many thanks to Nadine Armishaw of Mountain View Funeral Chapels for handling all the arrangements. 19-1tp

The family of Mae Blain would like to thank Dr. Read, Dr. Benton and the staff of the Auxiliary for the many years of excellent care she received while a patient there. The consideration and thoughtfulness shown to her family made a difficult time much easier to bear. Thank you all. 19-1tp

840 - OBITUARY

BLAIN - Minnie (Mac) Blain, a long time resident and pioneer of the Rugby area, west of Didsbury, passed away on August 10, 1995 at the age of 85 years.

Mae was born September 9, 1909 in the Rugby district and lived there until entering the Didsbury Auxiliary Hospital in 1981. She attended Rugby School, Didsbury High School and then completed a homemaking course at Olds College.

Mae married Alex Blain on August 14, 1931 and they raised a family of three. When Mae and Alex first married they lived at Elkton. Eight years later Mae and Alex moved to the home place 15 miles west of Didsbury.

Mae was a devoted wife and mother. She took great pleasure in her garden. Along with Alex, Mae took several flower judging courses and judged at local fairs. Mae spent many hours baking, canning and sewing for her family.

Mae is remembered for her kind, considerate nature. Family ties and celebrations were very important to her. Mae spent many hours keeping the family in touch with each other. Her love for her family spilled over into the community. She was a member of the W.I., the U.C.W. and the Red Cross. Mae also enjoyed square dancing with the Olds Calico Capers Club. She and Alex went camping and dancing all around Southern Alberta. Mae liked travelling and meeting new people.

She is survived by her son Donald (Maureen) Blain of Didsbury, daughters Vera (Bruce) Nelson of Didsbury, Lila (Tom) Krahn of Brooks, eight grandchildren, Mary Moritz, Ross Nelson, Alvin Nelson, Glenn Nelson, Auora Nelson, Sally Arnold, Nancy Blain and Carla Krahn as well as five great grandchildren.

Mae was predeceased by her husband Alex, her parents Minnie and Kyle Oliver, her stepfather Bill Brown, two brothers and one grandson. She will be sadly missed by family and friends.

Funeral services were held from Knox United Church, Didsbury on Monday, August 14, 1995 at 2 p.m. with Rev. Dr. Ken Jordan officiating. Pallbearers were Ross Nelson, Alvin Nelson, Doug Wagner, Ronald Blain, Bruce Smith and Eric Goetjen. Interment followed in the Didsbury Cemetery. Memorial donations may be given to the Alzheimer Society, 1305 Centre Ave N.E., Calgary, Alberta T2E 8K3 or to the charity of one's choice.

Mountain View Funeral Chapels, Didsbury entrusted with arrangements. 19-1tc

850 - IN MEMORIAM

"We cannot bring back those days
When we were together forever
But our loving memories,
Are our treasures that will live
With us forever."

Now that school is back in session, it's time to start thinking about all those lunches you will have to prepare for your children to take with them. "What should I make them for lunch?" A trying question, right? And one you face day after day. Whatever you put together, though, here's how to pack it safely - whether in a school lunch box, a plain brown paper bag or in one of the new re-useable lunch totes.

Keep everything that touches food clean. Stop and wash your hands before preparing food. And wash utensils, bowls, countertops and everything that touches food between each use. Use a fork rather than your hands to mix meat, macaroni, egg, tuna or green salads.

Keep lunches cold. If you like to prepare your child's lunch the night before, keep it in the refrigerator until the next morning. Lunches that contain perishable foods such as fried chicken, meat sandwiches, hard-boiled eggs, etc., must be kept cold until eaten. Chips, cookies and other snacks (that may go limp in the refrigerator) and cold drinks should be packed into the lunch box the following morning. To help keep those lunches cold until lunchtime, here are a few "cooling" tips that you may wish to try.

1. Use insulated containers or freeze water in used 35 mm canisters or other leak proof containers and pack them in the lunch box to keep foods cold. Commercial freezing gels may also be packed in the lunch box. Some reusable totes now come with freeze pack inserts.

2. Pack a small can of frozen juice into the lunch box. The juice should be thawed in time for lunch while keeping the other foods cold.

3. Freeze sandwiches the night before. This works best with coarse-textured breads that won't get soggy on thawing. The sandwich thaws in time for lunch and it keeps everything else cool in the meantime. Note: Hold the lettuce, tomato and mayonnaise as they do not freeze well. Pack them in separate containers to add at lunch time.

4. Use a thermos to keep milk or juice cold. Or try the new fruit juices in special wax-paper cartons that need no refrigeration. If you use a thermos, check the temperature after the liquid has been kept in it for several hours. The liquid should be colder than 4 degrees Celsius or 40 degrees Fahrenheit.

Hot lunch tips

Preparing a hot packed lunch is easier than it might sound. You need a metal or glass thermos. When using the thermos, it's a wise idea to check the temperature after food has been kept in it for several hours. The food should be hotter than 60 degrees Celsius (140 degrees Fahrenheit). A wide mouthed thermos will hold soup, stew, baked beans, macaroni and cheese, chili and even hot dogs. Put one or two weiners into the thermos and cover them with boiling water.

The bun, spread with all the fixings, can be wrapped and packed so the eater can put the weiner into the bun for a noon-time hot dog.

Everyone looks forward to lunchtime. We hope these tips will help you make a safe and nutritious meal. For more information or a handout on "Safe foods to go" call your District Health Services.

Aquajets to compete in provincial swim meet

by Janice Harrington
Review Editor

Didsbury's swim team, the Aquajets, competed extremely well in regional competition earlier this month to allow a total of ten swimmers to go on to provincials.

Aquajet coach Lynne Chernow said she was impressed with the summer club's showing at the regional meet which was held August 12 and 13 in Calgary. Lindsey Park pool.

"They all swam so well and we are in a very difficult region," Chernow said. "Many of the other teams get to compete year round and we are still only a summer club."

While only the first and second placers could go on to compete, some of the members who came very close to those times were given a "by" to compete at the provincials which was also held in Calgary this past weekend.

The team results and their times are as follows:

Girls 11 and 12 free relay - placed third in the region: Andrea Choquette, Heather Schwandt, Pamela Palardy, Ruth Fitzsimonds.

Boys 15 and 16 free relay - placed 2nd in regionals: Cameron Durieux, James Palardy, Patrick Palardy and Chad Durieux.

Boys 15 and 16 medley relay - placed 2nd in regionals: James Fitzsimonds, Patrick Palardy, Chad Durieux and James Palardy.

Boys 8 and under - Cameron Durieux, 25m free - first and I.M. - third in regionals. James Fitzsimonds, 25m fly - third in regionals.

Girls 11 and 12 - Pamela Palardy, 400m free - third, 200m free - third, 100m I.M. - 4th and 50m backstroke - second in regionals. Ruth Fitzsimonds, 400m free - first, 200m free - first, 100 I.M. - first and 100m free - third in regionals.

Girls 13 and 14 - Shawna Leatherdale, 800m free - fourth in regionals.

Boys 13 and 14 - James Palardy, 1500m free - third and 50m free - first.

Boys 15 and 16 - Patrick Palardy, 1500m free - fourth and 100m breaststroke - fourth in regionals. Chad Durieux - 200m I.M. - third and 100m breaststroke - third in regionals.

While coach Chernow said the team also placed extremely well in provincial competition, including breaking one provincial record, results from the meet were not available at press time. Results will be in next week's Review.

DIDSBURY'S BIG WEEKEND

Ride em cowboy! Eleven-year-old Levi Orr was in for a heck of a ride at the fair when he climbed on the mechanical bull. Amateur at the sport, he still put in a great time before being thrown.

Sunshine on parade. The weather cleared up enough for the weekend to allow participants in the Elks sponsored parade to entertain a long line up of people along the parade route, including those more interested in the candy than the floats.

What a show. 4H members got the chance to show off at the 4H heifer show at the tent on the fair grounds.

Parade results

Commercial floats: 1. Moffit Auction Service, 2. Esso/Didsbury Towing, 3. Added Touch Party Supplies.

Non-commercial floats: 1. Town of Didsbury, 2. Didsbury 5-0 Singers, 3. West Didsbury 4H Beef Club.

Harness Horse: 1. Don Irwin, 2. Gordon Reinhardt, Dick's Auto Service.

Buggy Horse: 1. Kreb's Belgians, 2. Glen Kershaw and family, 3. Harvey Brown.

Family unit: 1. Bullets Drill Team, 2. Didsbury Outlaws, 3. Keim Family.

Horse and rider: 1. Deena Wannamaker, 2. Edna Murphy, 3. Louise Krebs. Junior horse and rider: 1. Courtney Murphy, 2. Keim twins, 3. Ron Whitney.

Antiques: 1. Myron Lachman and Barb Van Holland, 2. Bob Eckel, 3. Vern Mill.

Kids and clowns: Brett Thompson, Kasey Eickhorst, Tara Faucher, Tamara Martel, Kody Eickhorst, Luke Kenzie, Justin Martel, Nathan Crosby, Luwnya Foucher, Michael Kosinski, Walter Due, Lisa Elgert, Josh Kenzie, David Kosinski, Theresa Wirchenko, Anna Crosby, Ryan Chernow, Randi Mudry, Tina Pasco, Clarence Kraft and John Bronfres.

Store decorating contest results

Results of the Didsbury Agricultural Fair and Rodeo store front judging.

First: Alberta Treasury Branches

Second: Cut 'n' Loose Hair Design

Third: Kuelker's Manufacturing

Who's on first? The Pedigree Animal Actors were a big hit with children of all ages, especially when they pitted child against dog in a game of musical mats.

Nature in its splendor. The wet weather certainly made no difference in the entries at the bench show as this first place entry by Jean Ford shows.

Netball club opens

Special to the Review

Calgary Women's Netball clubs welcome all new members, ages 12 and over, no experience necessary. Netball is an exciting, fast paced, non-contact passing game similar in many ways to the game of basketball. It is also an excellent spectator sport for all ages.

groups and in countries such as Australia, New Zealand, Britain and the Caribbean, is an extremely high profile and most commonly played women's sport.

In addition to the junior and senior provincial teams, there are currently three clubs in Calgary that all meet and play weekly and compete in a Sunday night league at the Southland Leisure Centre which commences in September. Whether you would just like to see what the game is all about, join a club nearest you, or aspire to a higher level of competition by being a member of a provincial team, please contact Paula at 281-8348.

Gunsch doubles earnings with double win

Special to the Review

Jimmy Gunsch may have missed the Canadian Finals Rodeo for the last three years, after making it when he was just 20-years-old, but he's making a late bid to get there again in 1995, if last weekend is any indication. The 24-year-old calf roper from Thorsby, AB more than doubled his earnings from the rest of the season at rodeos in Lethbridge and Cardston, AB taking away two victories and more than $2,000.

The former National High School Rodeo Association Rookie of the Year shared a win with Cardston, AB's Darren Shaw at the Lethbridge Whoop-Up Days, taking home $1,375 with a 6.9 second run and claimed a solo victory at the Cardston Heritage Days to pocket another $924. That moves Gunsch from the bottom of the cellar at 31st place in the Canadian roping standings to within possible CFR contention at 19th.

The only other roper to take top spot over the weekend was Jim Cooper of Bowden, AB at the Cranbrook Pro Rodeo in BC for $952.

But the biggest earner of the weekend was Donald, AB's Greg Cassidy, a two-event cowboy who picked up a win with a speedy time of 3.8 seconds in the steer wrestling at Lethbridge for a hefty $1,657 cheque and tied for second in the calf roping with Red Deer, AB's Joe Butterfield at Cranbrook for a further $706. Cassidy moves up one spot in the calf roping as a result, to 8th and charges up the bulldogging standings from 19th to 13th. He also sits at third in the high point rankings.

Other bulldogging winners included Paynton, SK's Todd Boggust at Cranbrook for $1,137, and four Alberta cowboys were in a four-way tie for a victory worth $790 each at Cardston: Red Deer's Daryl Towers, Carleton Place's David and Darcy Roy and Raymond's Jeff Heggie.

Coincidentally, there was another tie in the bull riding at Cardston between four cowboys. New Zealand's Daryl Church, High River, AB's John Glover, Rainier, AB's Chris Self and Barrhead, AB's Shannon Schmaus all scored 78 points on Kesler bulls and went home with $521 each. Self also came third at Lethbridge with another 78 for $953. The winner at Lethbridge was Don Lawrence of Kennedy, SK who hit a high score of 86 points for $1,482 after a high-flying ride on Kesler's White Lightning. At Cranbrook, Quentin Lowry was at the top of the list with an 82-point ride aboard Bob Baird's Silent Partner for $1,082. Lowry now has a more than $6,000 lead in the Canadian bull riding standings.

Another impressive performer was bareback rider Cam Morris, who won at Cranbrook, placed third at Lethbridge and tied for fourth at Cardston. The 33-year-old from Patricia, AB, looking to make his sixth CFR appearance, rode Wayne Vold's Skoal Weekend Warrior at Cranbrook for the victory and $906 and picked up another $835 at Lethbridge and Cardston. He sits in eighth place in the Canadian standings.

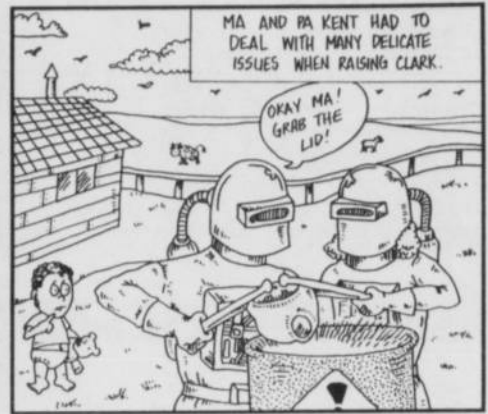

Bill Boyd followed up his Canadian record-tying 89-point ride at Innisfail in June with another big score at Lethbridge for the victory. The Olds, AB bareback rider racked up 87 points for a $1,211 victory on Kesler's Spitfire. Boyd moves ahead of Millet, AB's Shawn Vant into second place in the bareback rankings with the win. The same horse - Spitfire - provided the win at Cardston, with a little help from Wade Graves of Williams Lake, BC, who took home $674.

In the saddle bronc, Longview, AB's Christopher Bews was consistent with two second place finishes at Cardston and Cranbrook for $1,453 in winnings. Winners of the event were Lloydminster, SK's Mel Coleman on Kesler's Alley Cat at Cardston, Glen O'Neill of Australia on Kesler's Skoals Knotts Landing at Lethbridge and Shawn Henry of Drayton Valley, AB on Vold's Hurricane Skoal at Cranbrook.

Dee Butterfield was the standout in ladies barrel racing. The Ponoka, AB, barrel racer took home $1,576 in prize money after a $1,117 victory at Lethbridge and shared a second place finish with Madden, AB's Amie Stone at Cardston for another $458. Canadian barrel racing leader Debbie Guelly continued to shine, with a win at Cardston for $626 and a fourth place finish at Cranbrook for another $376. Wainwright, AB's Joan Hager took the victory at Cranbrook for $811.
